

Kimberly-Clark Professional* manufactures the world's leading tissue brands. We take a lifecycle approach to our products. In line with this, ethical and responsible sourcing of wood fibre is a key focus. We have worked hard to earn FSC® certification and we're also a partner of WWF's Love Your Forests program.

About the FSC

The Forest Stewardship Council (FSC) is internationally recognised as the world's most rigorous environmental and social standard for responsible forest management. It is endorsed by WWF and Greenpeace as the gold standard of forestry management certification.

- The FSC is an independent, non-government, non-profit organisation and since its beginning the FSC has certified over 130 million hectares of forests in over 80 countries.
- With FSC certification you can be assured that fibre is sourced from responsibly managed forests, is not contributing to illegal logging or destruction of high conservation value forests and that endangered wildlife habitats are not being negatively affected.
- It also gives assurance that the rights of workers and indigenous communities are respected.

KCP's commitment to ethical sourcing

In 2011, Kimberly-Clark Corporation decreed that by 2015, 100% of its wood fibre will come from certified suppliers. As of July 2012, Kimberly-Clark Professional is pleased to announce that most of its Australian manufactured tissue and paper towel products¹ are now FSC certified.

Responsible procurement, including the ethical sourcing of materials such as forest fibre, is a key focus area for Kimberly-Clark and is increasingly important to its customers.

After achieving FSC certification across most of our Australian made tissue and towel products, KCP recognises that it now must help build further recognition and understanding of the certification scheme, whilst emphasising the impact purchasing decisions can have on the environment and our future sustainability. KCP has recently become a partner in WWF's Love Your Forests program which aims to raise awareness and recognition of FSC certification, therefore helping to stop destruction of the world's high conservation value forests.

The mark of responsible forestry

Kimberly-Clark Professional's range of FSC Certified Products are manufactured on four continents, and while the same rigorous standards are applied to each site, each carries their own unique accreditation.
